Joan,

Can you see if there is another # on Sergeant Rinaldi's card? I think there may be a 1800 # - not sure how helpful that will be...

Thanks,
Mike

Hi Clare.

We met Laura on the walkthrough this afternoon and Rick committed to send her this also. As you will see, I still need to gather some information from a few attendees and also to triple/quadruple check to make sure that I have not left anyone out. Lots of moving parts still to manage, but no doubt everything will come together beautifully.

Have a great evening and please call me anytime with any questions.

Thank you!

Hi Clare.

We met Laura on the walkthrough this afternoon and Rick committed to send her this also. As you will see, I still need to gather some information from a few attendees and also to triple/quadruple check to make sure that I have not left anyone out. Lots of moving parts still to manage, but no doubt everything will come together beautifully.

Have a great evening and please call me anytime with any questions.

Thank you!

GREEN & GLOVER: The doc does dinner

Stephanie Green and Elizabeth Glover (Contact)

Seen enjoying an al fresco meal Thursday evening at Cafe Milano: Jill Biden, who we saw at the Georgetown eatery seated with Nancy Orloff, a longtime scheduler and assistant to Mrs. B's better half, Vice President Joseph R. Biden Jr.

She picked a bad night to be left alone. As she sat on the patio, inside diners were buzzing as Washington's who's who — such as former Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan, his wife Andrea Mitchell of NBC News, and former Secretary of Defense William S. Cohen — turned out in droves in support of the book party for "Mortal Friends," a juicy tome about D.C. power wives written by Georgetown doyenne Jane Stanton Hitchcock.

Mrs. B., however, didn't seem to mind the chatter and the curious passersby. Looking tanned and relaxed, she told G2 just how much fun she had on her recent jaunt to Germany to meet and greet the troops en route to Paris for an education conference.

We also asked how the new Biden pup, Champ, was holding up as Bo Obama has stolen most of the spotlight from the second canine, a German Shepherd.

Mrs. Biden said Champ was doing fine but seemed to have trouble recollecting whether the two would-be rival canines have met for a play date.

Here's an idea: Perhaps the Bidens could invite Bo over to dig for bones with Champ on the vast lawn at the Naval Observatory in Northwest Washington, the home of the veep and his lovely wife.

While we're on the subject of bones, Mrs. B's wishbone necklace caught our eye.

After complimenting her on the stunning but delicate pendant, her eyes lit up as she explained it was a gift from her family when she completed her doctorate in education in 2007.

Joan,

Can you see if there is another # on Sergeant Rinaldi's card? I think there may be a 1800 # - not sure how helpful that will be...

Thanks,

Hello All.

Please see attached.

I'm sending to Laura as well along with an updated show flow. Please circulate as needed or let me know who else should be on the receiving end of this.

2 questions:

- 1) Do you need information for Former Congresswoman Sandlin?
- 2) You'll note we're short information for a small handful of people. Shall I send that data to your attention once received?

I am calling Amy Dudley now to answer her questions about RSVPs.

Thank you.

GREEN & GLOVER: The doc does dinner

Stephanie Green and Elizabeth Glover (Contact)

Seen enjoying an al fresco meal Thursday evening at Cafe Milano: Jill Biden, who we saw at the Georgetown eatery seated with Nancy Orloff, a longtime scheduler and assistant to Mrs. B's better half, Vice President Joseph R. Biden Jr.

She picked a bad night to be left alone. As she sat on the patio, inside diners were buzzing as Washington's who's who - such as former Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan, his wife Andrea Mitchell of NBC News, and former Secretary of Defense William S. Cohen - turned out in droves in support of the book party for "Mortal Friends," a juicy tome about D.C. power wives written by Georgetown doyenne Jane Stanton Hitchcock.

Mrs. B., however, didn't seem to mind the chatter and the curious passersby. Looking tanned and relaxed, she told G2 just how much fun she had on her recent jaunt to Germany to meet and greet the troops en route to Paris for an education conference.

We also asked how the new Biden pup, Champ, was holding up as Bo Obama has stolen most of the spotlight from the second canine, a German Shepherd.

Mrs. Biden said Champ was doing fine but seemed to have trouble recollecting whether the two would-be rival canines have met for a play date.

Here's an idea: Perhaps the Bidens could invite Bo over to dig for bones with Champ on the vast lawn at the Naval Observatory in Northwest Washington, the home of the veep and his lovely wife.

While we're on the subject of bones, Mrs. B's wishbone necklace caught our eye.

After complimenting her on the stunning but delicate pendant, her eyes lit up as she explained it was a gift from her family when she completed her doctorate in education in 2007.

Subject: Mark Halperin's Grade For JRB After First 100 Days

Joe Biden, Vice President
Grade: A-

Serving as second-in-command precisely in the manner he and Obama discussed before he accepted the position. Involved in major decisions, carrying water on Capitol Hill, fulfilling difficult foreign policy tasks, reaching out to constituencies for which he has great instincts and offering rigorous private advice when he believes he knows better. (And admirably staying on message and on the reservation when he doesn't get his way.) For many observers, part of a White House tableau of family values, purposeful diligence and middle-class championing. Still susceptible to the lance of late-night comics owing more to the unshakable encumbrance of the office he holds and the reputation he brought with him than for any missteps as Vice President.

Hi Clare.

We met Laura on the walkthrough this afternoon and Rick committed to send her this also. As you will see, I still need to gather some information from a few attendees and also to triple/quadruple check to make sure that I have not left anyone out. Lots of moving parts still to manage, but no doubt everything will come together beautifully.

Have a great evening and please call me anytime with any questions.

Thank you!

GREEN & GLOVER: The doc does dinner

Stephanie Green and Elizabeth Glover (Contact)

AMERICAN FIRST LEGAL FOUNDATION

She picked a bad night to be left alone. As she sat on the patio, inside diners were buzzing as Washington's who's who - such as former Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan, his wife Andrea Mitchell of NBC News, and former Secretary of Defense William S. Cohen - turned out in droves in support of the book party for "Mortal Friends," a juicy tome about D.C. power wives written by Georgetown doyenne Jane Stanton Hitchcock.

Mrs. B., however, didn't seem to mind the chatter and the curious passersby. Looking tanned and relaxed, she told G2 just how much fun she had on her recent jaunt to Germany to meet and greet the troops en route to Paris for an education conference.

We also asked how the new Biden pup, Champ, was holding up as Bo Obama has stolen most of the spotlight from the second canine, a German Shepherd.

Mrs. Biden said Champ was doing fine but seemed to have trouble recollecting whether the two would-be rival canines have met for a play date.

Here's an idea: Perhaps the Bidens could invite Bo over to dig for bones with Champ on the vast lawn at the Naval Observatory in Northwest Washington, the home of the veep and his lovely wife.

While we're on the subject of bones, Mrs. B's wishbone necklace caught our eye.

After complimenting her on the stunning but delicate pendant, her eyes lit up as she explained it was a gift from her family when she completed her doctorate in education in 2007.

Hello All.

Please see attached.

I'm sending to Laura as well along with an updated show flow. Please circulate as needed or let me know who else should be on the receiving end of this.

2 questions:

- 1) Do you need information for Former Congresswoman Sandlin?
- 2) You'll note we're short information for a small handful of people. Shall I send that data to your attention once received?

I am calling Amy Dudley now to answer her questions about RSVPs.

Thank you.

Dr. Biden's debut
By: Carol E. Lee
June 12, 2009 04:29 AM EST

Jill Biden was standing in a brilliant aqua dress inside a packed Gotham Hall in Manhattan one evening last week, waiting to address hundreds of people at an awards ceremony for a leading gay and lesbian organization.

One by one, they approached her.

Some just wanted to say hello. Many of them hugged her. A few complimented her shoes. But most gushed about how excited they were to hear her speak.

At one point, Biden turned to her staff, flashed a broad smile and said, "I'm a teacher when did I become a speaker?"

It was just one of the signs that Biden has come into her own in her new role as the nation's second lady. Biden has always been a reluctant participant in the public sphere. But lately, she is more visible than at any time since her husband, Vice President Joe Biden, was sworn into office.

On Friday, Dr. Biden, as she prefers to be called, will deliver her one and only commencement address for the year at Kingsborough Community College in Brooklyn, N.Y., capping what has been her busiest month yet as second lady. She turned down an invitation to speak at Northern Virginia Community College, where she recently finished teaching her first semester, telling the school she wants to be treated as a regular faculty member.

Biden, who recently turned 58, is warmly received just about wherever she goes whether it's with a dozen women passing tissues around the room during a discussion about breast cancer or with 500 troops on a military base.

And as she did 33 years ago after she married a well-known senator named Joe Biden, Jill Biden has carved a path for herself that's outside the shadow of an immensely popular first lady, Michelle Obama, whom she considers a friend.

In the past month, Biden has appeared on the Today show making care packages for the troops. She became the face of breast cancer awareness, headlining a number of events last week for the Global Race for the Cure. She delivered remarks to kick off the National Spelling Bee championship, telling the kids about being nervous herself in a sixth-grade spelling contest. And she toured a Denver community college as part of the task President Barack Obama has given her to help raise awareness of the importance of two-year colleges.

The Politico 44 Story Widget Requires Adobe Flash Player.

She looks at it as an adventure, said Biden's friend Mary Doody, who used to teach with her at a community college in Delaware. She's getting more and more used to speaking.

Biden's three primary worlds—teaching, her family and her work for the White House—constantly overlap.

After her first day of teaching at NOVA, she asked her Secret Service detail to get rid of their suits and ties and dress like students. When they turned up the next day in Dockers, sweaters and ties, she politely asked them to tone it down a little more.

She just doesn't want them to stand out, and she doesn't want to stand out, said Jim McClellan, the dean of NOVA. She doesn't want anything that would make her seem like they have to treat her differently. ... Even when people ask her about her relationship to Joe Biden, her answer is "We're related."

Biden, who specializes in developmental English, will upgrade to teaching full-time at NOVA this fall, McClellan said.

That means she will continue what has been a curious balancing act that once had her in a campus bathroom changing into a suit in advance of a Rose Garden event honoring teachers, where Obama called her, seated in the front row, an outstanding educator in her own right.

Outside the classroom, Biden occupies a corner suite on the second floor of the Eisenhower Executive Office Building. She has a staff of eight including a policy director and two employees who manage the vice presidential residence at the Naval Observatory.

The issues Biden has taken on education, military families, breast cancer each strike a very personal note with her. And Biden usually strikes a personal note in return.

She has been an educator for 28 years, 16 of them teaching at a community college a point she makes repeatedly when speaking about education. She also has a son serving in Iraq, which she often mentions in her discussions with military spouses.

It's hard to underestimate the power of a personal connection, she told USA Today last month.

Biden said before the Inauguration that the vice presidency offered an opportunity for her family to spend more time together.

She has since rolled out homemade dough for her son Hunter's birthday chicken pot pie and had bunk beds brought into the Naval Observatory for the Biden grandchildren's sleepovers. Her granddaughter Maizy plays on the same basketball team as Sasha Obama and is in her class at Sidwell Friends.

Biden's marriage, too, has entered a new phase. In April, Jill and Joe Biden headlined a meeting of the White House's middle-class task force in Missouri. She's said her husband still calls her a couple of times a day. They have dinner together most nights. And their staffs know to schedule their travel together whenever possible.

They have regained the time that was formerly spent on Amtrak, said Jill Biden's communications director, Courtney O'Donnell, referring to Joe Biden's legendary commute to Congress as a senator.

The second lady also sometimes corrects her husband's grammar. Thankfully, in private, Joe Biden quipped to People magazine this spring. And she bends the vice president's ear about the war in Iraq. He hears my opinion almost every day on that, believe me, she told the Wilmington News Journal last month. Bring our son home, for heaven's sakes.

Biden's public role has not included many media interviews, and she declined a request to talk for this story.

She has mostly escaped unwelcome coverage in the press. The day before the Inauguration, she caused a stir when she told Oprah that Obama had offered her husband a choice of secretary of state or vice president. She's also been mocked for her insistence that people call her Dr. She even corrected a soldier she greeted at Fort Bragg, who said, Hello, Mrs. Biden, according to an account on Twitter.

Biden has defended her preference, telling People, Ya know, I worked hard for that degree.

She doesn't have nearly as high a profile as Michelle Obama, but Jill Biden is also a bit of a celebrity. She draws autograph-hungry crowds and turned a $450, red patent leather handbag by a little-known designer into a must-have simply by being photographed carrying it.

The first lady has been one of Jill Biden's strongest supporters. They lunch together fairly regularly and have worked on military family issues together.

Biden told People, We talk about girl things like, Where did you get those shoes? as well as issues.

The public will see more of Jill Biden going forward.

This summer she will speak to national groups about education and military families. Her Kingsborough commencement address is just the beginning.

She knew she wanted to speak at a community college, O'Donnell said. Kingsborough is a great school that's very diverse.

And its graduation ceremony was after the spring semester at NOVA, so Biden could easily make the trip.

Joe Biden, Vice President
Grade: A-

Serving as second-in-command precisely in the manner he and Obama discussed before he accepted the position. Involved in major decisions, carrying water on Capitol Hill, fulfilling difficult foreign policy tasks, reaching out to constituencies for which he has great instincts and offering rigorous private advice when he believes he knows better. (And admirably staying on message — and on the reservation — when he doesn't get his way.) For many observers, part of a White House tableau of family values, purposeful diligence and middle-class championing. Still susceptible to the lance of late-night comics — owing more to the unshakable encumbrance of the office he holds and the reputation he brought with him than for any missteps as Vice President.

Subject: Invitation

Dear Hunter,

Thank you for returning my call.

Attached is an invitation to your step mom to come, receive an award, and speak at the Hispanic College Fund's 16th Annual Scholarship Awards Gala being held on October 30th here in Washington.

We would like to present Mrs. Biden with an award for her work as an educator in the community college system, which touches a great number of Hispanic students.

I also attach some information about the Hispanic College Fund, where I serve on the Board as General Counsel.

I'll follow-up with you at the end of the month.

Thank you, Hunter.

Hope you and your family are having a good summer.

Best,

Orlando

HCF According to Students

"Growing up, I felt that college was out of my reach because of my family's low income. Therefore, I came to the Hispanic Youth Symposium to find out ways to attend college. I needed to learn about the financial aid and the college application process. HCF helped save my life because it showed me a direction. A direction that will uplift my family's situation, giving me the chance later in life to demonstrate to others through my experiences that it is possible to succeed! Thank you HCF!!!!!!!!!!!! I am in college because of you!" – Alexandra, 2006 Hispanic Youth Symposium Alumna

"This experience is definitely one I will not forget. The amount of time and dedication the Hispanic College Fund places on students is amazing. All of the workshops were extremely informative and I know that I am walking away from the program much more prepared to enter the workforce. I will also share with my peers the information I received over the past few days. I hope to remain in contact with my mentor as well as the staff and scholars of the Hispanic College Fund." – 2008 Karen Marquez Institute Alumnus

HCF By the Numbers

Scholars Program and Karen Marquez Institute

- HCF received 34,292 scholarship applications for the 2009-2010 school year, increasing 16.5% over the 2008-2009 school year.
- Our most recent scholar awardees' median household income is $21,631 per year, while the average GPA is 3.5.
- Nearly half of all scholars are pursuing STEM-related majors, while one out of three is pursuing a Business-related degree.
- 67% of scholars will be the first in their family to attain a college degree.

Hispanic Youth Symposia

- More than 95% of participants report that they will go to college, with 8 out of 10 planning to pursue a Master's degree or higher.
- 85% of Hispanic Youth Symposium alumni report actively volunteering in the community.
- More than half of students report that they will pursue a STEM- or business-related degree, and 85% have a plan in place to reach their career goals.

Mission and Programs

The Hispanic College Fund (HCF) is a private non-profit organization dedicated to its mission to develop the next generation of Hispanic professionals in America. The HCF accomplishes its mission by providing Hispanic students with the vision, resources, and mentorship needed to attain successful careers and become community leaders. Our vision is to strengthen the nation, not just economically but also intellectually. With higher Hispanic educational attainment and increased representation of Hispanics in leadership and professional positions, we can ensure the prosperity of future generations.

Since its founding in 1993, HCF has supported the education of over 4,000 financially disadvantaged Hispanic students seeking careers in business, science, engineering and technology with over $13 million in grants. Through programs like the HCF Scholars Program, Hispanic Youth Symposium, Latinos on Fast Track (LOFT), HCF Connections and the HYP Leadership & Development Program, HCF has served an additional 2,000 students and has broadened the pool of Hispanic college graduates that are ready to join the professional workforce.

The Hispanic College Fund programs span the education-to-career trajectory, beginning at the high school level, supporting students through college, and connecting them to their future career. The Hispanic College Fund is increasing the pool of college-bound Hispanic high school students with regionally-focused Hispanic Youth Symposia. The Symposia serve 200 Hispanic students per city and reach students in their sophomore or junior years in high school. Students are nominated by their high school counselor; however, high grades are not a requirement as the purpose of this program is to help average students change their attitudes about going to college. Through year-round support and programming, the Hispanic College Fund ensures that the students stay on track through graduation, apply for scholarships and apply to college. The program has had tremendous results; over 90 percent of students that go through the program have gone on to college. An important element of the program is the location. The symposia are held in college campuses so that students can "live" the life of a college student for 4 days and 3 nights. Hispanic Youth Symposia have been held in the following institutions: Marymount University (VA), Trinity University (DC), University of Maryland – Baltimore County (MD), Towson University (MD), University of Richmond (VA), George Mason University (VA), Southern Methodist University (TX), University of New Mexico (NM), California State University – Fresno (CA), University of California – Los Angeles (CA). Our goal is to host a Symposium in 15 U.S. cities by 2015.

The Hispanic College Fund's Scholars Program supports Latino college students with merit and need-based scholarships. The scholarships are competitive and can have career-specific or geographic criteria that the students must meet. The scholarships are awarded annually. The awards range from $1,000 to $10,000. The median grade point average of the 2009 HCF Scholars was above a 3.5 (on a 4.0 scale), while the median household income was approximately $21,000. This scholarship support is vitally important for these students and their families.

Through the Hispanic Young Professionals Program (HYP), the Hispanic College Fund is preparing cohorts of Hispanic college students for the professional workforce through an intense week of leadership development. Participants of HYP are honored each year at the Hispanic College Fund Gala which attracts over 550 business leaders from the Washington, DC region and beyond. Students must compete for the opportunity and are selected based on their application essay. The leadership development curriculum consists of several career and life skill workshops to prepare students for the workforce. Workshops include resume-writing, interviewing skills, business etiquette, and networking which includes customized business cards for each student. Then, the students visit various employers within the Washington Metro Region where they interact with company leaders and learn about each industry. Finally, cultural and social events cement the peer mentoring relationships that begin during the program.

Finally, the Latinos on Fast Track (LOFT) Program has matched hundreds of Hispanic students to meaningful work experience with companies such as Freddie Mac and Abercrombie & Fitch that seek to hire more Latino professionals. Paired with the HCF Connections website which is an HCF Scholar and alumni virtual meeting place, students are exposed year-round to internships and job opportunities among all HCF sponsors. With more than just a scholarship, the Hispanic College Fund is developing Hispanic youth and bringing together Latino talent and the companies that want to hire them.

The Annual Scholarship Awards Gala

The Hispanic College Fund celebrates the achievement of its scholars at an annual gala held in Washington, DC. The event's program is student-centric, allowing one of the HCF Scholars to deliver a moving speech and bringing all 40 plus students on stage to thank their supporters. Attendees of the event typically include representatives from the organizations that support the work of the HCF. Also attending are community organizations such as: the Hispanic Heritage Foundation, the Society of Hispanic Professional Engineers, the United Negro College Funds Special Programs Corporation, the Association of Latino Professionals in Finance and Accounting and others. Several representatives from federal agencies also attend. These include the Social Security Administration, the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the U.S. Department of Energy and the National Nuclear Security Administration. Finally, members of Congress are always invited to the event. Past attendees include Congress Joe Baca, Senator Mel Martinez, Senator Orrin Hatch, Congressman Silvestre Reyes, and others.

The event will recognize one corporation with the Corporation of the Year Award for its long-term commitment of depth of involvement with our programs. The 2009 recipient of this award will be Kaiser Permanente. The Hispanic College Fund has also recognized a federal agency with the Legacy Award for its commitment to increase the representation of Hispanics in the workforce. The 2009 recipient has not been selected. The 2008 recipient was the NNSA.

The event is preceded by a reception that starts at 6:30 pm. The dinner begins at 7:30 pm and will continue until about 9:30 pm. A post-reception with dancing follows.

Community Involvement

The Hispanic College Fund enjoys the participation of a variety of constituents in its programs. Board members and volunteers support the scholarship program by agreeing to read and score scholarship applications every summer. Additionally, Board members, donors, and supporters also volunteer for the Hispanic Youth Symposia. Each symposium comes together with the work of approximately 200 volunteers who manage the logistics and make sure that the workshops, college fair, competitions, judging panels, meals, dormitories and anything else that need to happen, run smoothly. Volunteers come from the private and public sector, academia and also include past student participants who return as facilitators or Resident Assistants (RAs). The Hispanic College Fund would not have been able to grow without the active participation of its constituents. Some of our most active volunteers groups work for federal agencies, such as the Social Security Administration and the U.S. Department of Energy. The Hispanic College Fund is supported by approximately 1,600 volunteers.

Awards and Recognition

HCF has an annual budget of $6 million with 21 diverse full-time employees. In 2006 the HCF received the Brillante award for “Nonprofit of the Year” from the National Society of Hispanic MBAs, and in 2007 was recognized by USA Today as one of the nation’s top 25 charities.

HCF has a four-star rating from Charity Navigator, the highest rating possible for responsible fiscal management.

Partnerships.

The Hispanic College Fund enjoys a partnership with the Hispanic Heritage Foundation. Both organizations share the administration and execution of the Latinos on Fast Track (LOFT) program. The Hispanic Heritage Foundation celebrates the achievements of Hispanic Americans and provides role models for Latino youth (www.hispanicheritage.org).

The Society of Hispanic Professional Engineers (SHPE) and the United Negro College Fund Special Programs (UNCFSP) are consortium partners with the Hispanic College Fund to administer NASA’s Motivating Undergraduates in Science and Technology (MUST). The partnerships allow for cross-marketing and collaboration to select high achieving students from under-represented groups (African American, Hispanic, Native American, Pacific Islander, persons with disabilities and women) in science and technology for this unique scholarship and internship program.

Partnerships are central to the Hispanic College Fund programs. It is through our partners that we can provide year-round support to Latino high school students in various cities. Partnerships with AVID, the College Summit, the Posse Foundation and others are being with formed as the program expands to more cities.

Description of Organizational Structure.

The Hispanic College Fund Board structure includes six officers and twenty-two board members. The role of the Board is to set policy, review financial reports and audits, ensure compliance, and to help raise funds. Board members make annual personal contributions to the HCF and they also bring in the support of the corporations they represent. As of May, 2009 the following individuals served on the board:

Elizabeth Oliver-Farrow, Chair
Walter Nagel, Vice Chair Legal Affairs & Governance
Tommy Augustsson, Vice Chair of Finance & Treasurer
Marilu Marshall, Vice Chair of Scholarships
Marilyn Kawamura, Vice Chair of Nominations
Janet Farrell, Vice Chair of Development
Orlando Vidal, General Counsel
J. Fernando Barrueta, CEO
Alfonso Martinez
George Chavel

Kimberly Casiano
Jeff Kudlac
Michael Pham
Dario O. Marquez, Jr.
Harriet Sanford
Maria Harris Tildon
Jorge Kfoury

Joseph Petrone
Andrew Holguin
Ileana Hernandez
Jessica Montoya

The Chief Executive Officer (CEO) and the President report to the Board of Trustees. The CEO's primary role is to lead the development team in reaching the organization's aggressive financial goals. The President's primary role is to maintain and grow the support of current donors, ensure that the organization's strategic goals and objectives are being met, and to oversee the operations of the entire organization. The Vice President of Programs leads the successful execution of all youth programs which includes volunteer recruitment and engagement.

HCF's Statement of Need.

The future of America's economy lies in the hands of a new generation. Consider these statistics:

- In 2005, Hispanic students represented 11 percent of the total student enrollment in higher education. This is up from 6 percent in 1990 [NCES, Digest of Education Statistics, 2007, Table 210].
- Latinos were more likely to be first-generation college students (49 percent) than other undergraduates in 2003-04. [Excelencia in Education and Institute for Higher Education Policy, How Latinos Pay for College: Patterns of Financial Aid in 2003-04, 2005, Table A1].
- Almost 25 percent of Latino dependent undergraduates had family incomes under $40,000 in 2003-04. [Excelencia in Education and Institute for Higher Education Policy, How Latinos Pay for College: Patterns of Financial Aid in 2003-04, 2005, Table A1].

The Hispanic College Fund (HCF) focuses its efforts on serving Hispanic students from low-income homes. The average family income of a 2008 HCF Scholar is $20,500. Additionally, 3 out of 4 HCF Scholars are first person in their family to attend college and 2 out of 3 work while attending school full-time.

HCF provides scholarships that help cover the unmet financial need of students to pay for academic expenses including tuition, computers, books, lab equipment and other academic fees. Each year, about 600 students are awarded scholarships ranging between $500 and $5,000; the average scholarship is approximately $3,000. The scholarship allows students to work fewer hours while in school and focus on their studies.

Unfortunately, many students start their first year of college and find the challenges of a new school, sometimes a new location and academic difficulties overwhelming. Still, student difficulties are as varied as the scholars, themselves. While some scholarship recipients may struggle academically, other scholars focus on their academics to the exclusion of developing a career track, building networks or searching for internship or leadership programs. The reasons for this vary; students may lack role models or simply the time outside of work and school.

The Hispanic College Fund, recognizing these difficulties, provides more than just a scholarship check. Throughout the year, the HCF program office staff keeps students engaged via email and newsletter communication informing them of any internship, scholarship and job opportunities. Many students will contact the office looking for opportunities in specific fields, knowing that the program staff is an accessible and constant resource. HCF leverages its many partnerships and regional networks to help these students find those programs and internship openings or connect them to the people who can.

GREEN & GLOVER: The doc does dinner

Stephanie Green and Elizabeth Glover (Contact)

Seen enjoying an al fresco meal Thursday evening at Cafe Milano: Jill Biden, who we saw at the Georgetown eatery seated with Nancy Orloff, a longtime scheduler and assistant to Mrs. B's better half, Vice President Joseph R. Biden Jr.

She picked a bad night to be left alone. As she sat on the patio, inside diners were buzzing as Washington's who's who - such as former Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan, his wife Andrea Mitchell of NBC News, and former Secretary of Defense William S. Cohen - turned out in droves in support of the book party for "Mortal Friends," a juicy tome about D.C. power wives written by Georgetown doyenne Jane Stanton Hitchcock.

Mrs. B., however, didn't seem to mind the chatter and the curious passersby. Looking tanned and relaxed, she told G2 just how much fun she had on her recent jaunt to Germany to meet and greet the troops en route to Paris for an education conference.

We also asked how the new Biden pup, Champ, was holding up as Bo Obama has stolen most of the spotlight from the second canine, a German Shepherd.

Mrs. Biden said Champ was doing fine but seemed to have trouble recollecting whether the two would-be rival canines have met for a play date.

Here's an idea: Perhaps the Bidens could invite Bo over to dig for bones with Champ on the vast lawn at the Naval Observatory in Northwest Washington, the home of the veep and his lovely wife.

While we're on the subject of bones, Mrs. B's wishbone necklace caught our eye.

After complimenting her on the stunning but delicate pendant, her eyes lit up as she explained it was a gift from her family when she completed her doctorate in education in 2007.

Hi Clare.

We met Laura on the walkthrough this afternoon and Rick committed to send her this also. As you will see, I still need to gather some information from a few attendees and also to triple/quadruple check to make sure that I have not left anyone out. Lots of moving parts still to manage, but no doubt everything will come together beautifully.

Have a great evening and please call me anytime with any questions.

Thank you!

Hi Clare.

We met Laura on the walkthrough this afternoon and Rick committed to send her this also. As you will see, I still need to gather some information from a few attendees and also to triple/quadruple check to make sure that I have not left anyone out. Lots of moving parts still to manage, but no doubt everything will come together beautifully.

Have a great evening and please call me anytime with any questions.

Thank you!

Second Lady Jill Biden captivates Kingsborough Community College students

Dr. Jill Biden speaks to the graduating class at Brooklyn's Kingsborough Community College Friday.

The most famous community college professor in the nation - the Second Lady of America, Dr. Jill Biden - exhorted graduates of Kingsborough Community College in Brooklyn Friday to continue their education, even while reveling in the day's accomplishments.

"You all came to this college at many different stages in life and today, after hard work and sacrifices, long hours and sleepless nights, you all walk across the same stage - having accomplished something no one can ever take away from you," Biden told the colleges 44th graduating class. "The education gained on campuses like this one will provide the knowledge that will power the 21st century."

Biden knows of what she speaks: she has been an educator for more than 25 years, most recently as an adjunct professor at the Alexandria, Va., campus of Northern Virginia Community College, where she teaches English literature and writing.

"I am a community college teacher not simply because I can help to inspire you," added Biden, 58. "But because you inspire me."

Joined at the ceremony by Sen. Chuck Schumer \(D-N.Y.\), Mayor Bloomberg and Brooklyn borough president Marty Markowitz, Biden singled out several graduates for recognition in her address, among them Grace Simmons, 44.

Simmons went back to school in 2003 after losing her $50,000-a-year job as a lab tech. Today, she's a graduate of Kingsborough's nursing program and is looking forward to earning $60,000 to $70,000 at Lutheran Medical Center in Sunset Park, Brooklyn.

"I want to give back to Brooklyn what Brooklyn gave to me," said the married mom of a 24-year-old daughter.

Of Biden's speech, Simmons said the Second Lady's appreciation of the challenges often faced by community college students - from having to hold down multiple jobs, raise children, or sometimes learn English - made her words all the more powerful.

"You have to have been here to know what we are going through, and she has been here," said Simmons.

Bloomberg, in helping to introduce Biden, joked that "she will no doubt deliver all the wisdom, passion and intelligence of her husband - in about half the time," a reference to Vice President Joe Biden's gift for gab.

On a more serious note, the mayor said the city was undertaking new initiatives to expand childcare options on community college campuses, and to help students with the cost of textbooks - both issues that earned him hearty rounds of applause.

The mayor also exhorted the graduates to stay and work in New York - after a bit of celebrating.

"If I were you I would have an extra drink tonight," advised Bloomberg. "But tomorrow -- get back to work, and do it in New York City."

Joe Biden, Vice President
Grade: A-

Serving as second-in-command precisely in the manner he and Obama discussed before he accepted the position. Involved in major decisions, carrying water on Capitol Hill, fulfilling difficult foreign policy tasks, reaching out to constituencies for which he has great instincts and offering rigorous private advice when he believes he knows better. (And admirably staying on message — and on the reservation — when he doesn't get his way.) For many observers, part of a White House tableau of family values, purposeful diligence and middle-class championing. Still susceptible to the lance of late-night comics — owing more to the unshakable encumbrance of the office he holds and the reputation he brought with him than for any missteps as Vice President.

Hi Clare.

We met Laura on the walkthrough this afternoon and Rick committed to send her this also. As you will see, I still need to gather some information from a few attendees and also to triple/quadruple check to make sure that I have not left anyone out. Lots of moving parts still to manage, but no doubt everything will come together beautifully.

Have a great evening and please call me anytime with any questions.

Thank you!

GREEN & GLOVER: The doc does dinner

Stephanie Green and Elizabeth Glover (Contact)

Seen enjoying an al fresco meal Thursday evening at Cafe Milano: Jill Biden, who we saw at the Georgetown eatery seated with Nancy Orloff, a longtime scheduler and assistant to Mrs. B's better half, Vice President Joseph R. Biden Jr.

She picked a bad night to be left alone. As she sat on the patio, inside diners were buzzing as Washington's who's who — such as former Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan, his wife Andrea Mitchell of NBC News, and former Secretary of Defense William S. Cohen — turned out in droves in support of the book party for "Mortal Friends," a juicy tome about D.C. power wives written by Georgetown doyenne Jane Stanton Hitchcock.

Mrs. B., however, didn't seem to mind the chatter and the curious passersby. Looking tanned and relaxed, she told G2 just how much fun she had on her recent jaunt to Germany to meet and greet the troops en route to Paris for an education conference.

We also asked how the new Biden pup, Champ, was holding up as Bo Obama has stolen most of the spotlight from the second canine, a German Shepherd.

Mrs. Biden said Champ was doing fine but seemed to have trouble recollecting whether the two would-be rival canines have met for a play date.

Here's an idea: Perhaps the Bidens could invite Bo over to dig for bones with Champ on the vast lawn at the Naval Observatory in Northwest Washington, the home of the veep and his lovely wife.

While we're on the subject of bones, Mrs. B's wishbone necklace caught our eye.

After complimenting her on the stunning but delicate pendant, her eyes lit up as she explained it was a gift from her family when she completed her doctorate in education in 2007.

RE: Invitation (on behalf of Hunter Biden)

Hi Joan.

Just to keep you updated, please know that we regretted this invitation as it conflicts with the University of DE homecoming weekend. Dr. Biden plans to spend the weekend of October 30 in Wilmington.

All the best,
Anthony

Dear Hunter,

Thank you for returning my call.

Attached is an invitation to your step mom to come, receive an award, and speak at the Hispanic College Fund's 16th Annual Scholarship Awards Gala being held on October 30th here in Washington.

We would like to present Mrs. Biden with an award for her work as an educator in the community college system, which touches a great number of Hispanic students.

I also attach some information about the Hispanic College Fund, where I serve on the Board as General Counsel.

I'll follow-up with you at the end of the month.

Thank you, Hunter.

Hope you and your family are having a good summer.

Best,

Orlando

Joe Biden, Vice President
Grade: A-

Serving as second-in-command precisely in the manner he and Obama discussed before he accepted the position. Involved in major decisions, carrying water on Capitol Hill, fulfilling difficult foreign policy tasks, reaching out to constituencies for which he has great instincts and offering rigorous private advice when he believes he knows better. (And admirably staying on message — and on the reservation — when he doesn't get his way.) For many observers, part of a White House tableau of family values, purposeful diligence and middle-class championing. Still susceptible to the lance of late-night comics — owing more to the unshakable encumbrance of the office he holds and the reputation he brought with him than for any missteps as Vice President.

Hi Clare.

We met Laura on the walkthrough this afternoon and Rick committed to send her this also. As you will see, I still need to gather some information from a few attendees and also to triple/quadruple check to make sure that I have not left anyone out. Lots of moving parts still to manage, but no doubt everything will come together beautifully.

Have a great evening and please call me anytime with any questions.

Thank you!

GREEN & GLOVER: The doc does dinner

Stephanie Green and Elizabeth Glover (Contact)

Seen enjoying an al fresco meal Thursday evening at Cafe Milano: Jill Biden, who we saw at the Georgetown eatery seated with Nancy Orloff, a longtime scheduler and assistant to Mrs. B's better half, Vice President Joseph R. Biden Jr.

She picked a bad night to be left alone. As she sat on the patio, inside diners were buzzing as Washington's who's who — such as former Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan, his wife Andrea Mitchell of NBC News, and former Secretary of Defense William S. Cohen — turned out in droves in support of the book party for "Mortal Friends," a juicy tome about D.C. power wives written by Georgetown doyenne Jane Stanton Hitchcock.

Mrs. B., however, didn't seem to mind the chatter and the curious passersby. Looking tanned and relaxed, she told G2 just how much fun she had on her recent jaunt to Germany to meet and greet the troops en route to Paris for an education conference.

We also asked how the new Biden pup, Champ, was holding up as Bo Obama has stolen most of the spotlight from the second canine, a German Shepherd.

Mrs. Biden said Champ was doing fine but seemed to have trouble recollecting whether the two would-be rival canines have met for a play date.

Here's an idea: Perhaps the Bidens could invite Bo over to dig for bones with Champ on the vast lawn at the Naval Observatory in Northwest Washington, the home of the veep and his lovely wife.

While we're on the subject of bones, Mrs. B's wishbone necklace caught our eye.

After complimenting her on the stunning but delicate pendant, her eyes lit up as she explained it was a gift from her family when she completed her doctorate in education in 2007.

Hello All.

Please see attached.

I'm sending to Laura as well along with an updated show flow. Please circulate as needed or let me know who else should be on the receiving end of this.

2 questions:

- 1) Do you need information for Former Congresswoman Sandlin?
- 2) You'll note we're short information for a small handful of people. Shall I send that data to your attention once received?

I am calling Amy Dudley now to answer her questions about RSVPs.

Thank you.

Subject: RE: White House Tour

Stuart got back to me and would like to see if he can do it on Thursday evening of that same week - 7/30/09 - if possible. Same two people, but he'd like to add his daughter for a total of three people now.

His daughter is Nicole J. Grant (D.O.B.) I'll get SS# for you.

Let me know if this is possible.

Thanks,

Eric

GREEN & GLOVER: The doc does dinner

Stephanie Green and Elizabeth Glover (Contact)

Seen enjoying an al fresco meal Thursday evening at Cafe Milano: Jill Biden, who we saw at the Georgetown eatery seated with Nancy Orloff, a longtime scheduler and assistant to Mrs. B's better half, Vice President Joseph R. Biden Jr.

She picked a bad night to be left alone. As she sat on the patio, inside diners were buzzing as Washington's who's who such as former Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan, his wife Andrea Mitchell of NBC News, and former Secretary of Defense William S. Cohen turned out in droves in support of the book party for "Mortal Friends," a juicy tome about D.C. power wives written by Georgetown doyenne Jane Stanton Hitchcock.

Mrs. B., however, didn't seem to mind the chatter and the curious passersby. Looking tanned and relaxed, she told G2 just how much fun she had on her recent jaunt to Germany to meet and greet the troops en route to Paris for an education conference.

We also asked how the new Biden pup, Champ, was holding up as Bo Obama has stolen most of the spotlight from the second canine, a German Shepherd.

Mrs. Biden said Champ was doing fine but seemed to have trouble recollecting whether the two would-be rival canines have met for a play date.

Here's an idea: Perhaps the Bidens could invite Bo over to dig for bones with Champ on the vast lawn at the Naval Observatory in Northwest Washington, the home of the veep and his lovely wife.

While we're on the subject of bones, Mrs. B's wishbone necklace caught our eye.

After complimenting her on the stunning but delicate pendant, her eyes lit up as she explained it was a gift from her family when she completed her doctorate in education in 2007.

Hi Clare.

We met Laura on the walkthrough this afternoon and Rick committed to send her this also. As you will see, I still need to gather some information from a few attendees and also to triple/quadruple check to make sure that I have not left anyone out. Lots of moving parts still to manage, but no doubt everything will come together beautifully.

Have a great evening and please call me anytime with any questions.

Thank you!

Subject: Invitation

Dear Hunter,

Thank you for returning my call.

Attached is an invitation to your step mom to come, receive an award, and speak at the Hispanic College Fund's 16th Annual Scholarship Awards Gala being held on October 30th here in Washington.

We would like to present Mrs. Biden with an award for her work as an educator in the community college system, which touches a great number of Hispanic students.

I also attach some information about the Hispanic College Fund, where I serve on the Board as General Counsel.

I'll follow-up with you at the end of the month.

Thank you, Hunter.

Hope you and your family are having a good summer.

Best,

Orlando

HCF According to Students

"Growing up, I felt that college was out of my reach because of my family's low income. Therefore, I came to the Hispanic Youth Symposium to find out ways to attend college. I needed to learn about the financial aid and the college application process. HCF helped save my life because it showed me a direction. A direction that will uplift my family's situation, giving me the chance later in life to demonstrate to others through my experiences that it is possible to succeed! Thank you HCF!!!!!!!!!!!! I am in college because of you!" – Alexandra, 2006 Hispanic Youth Symposium Alumna

"This experience is definitely one I will not forget. The amount of time and dedication the Hispanic College Fund places on students is amazing. All of the workshops were extremely informative and I know that I am walking away from the program much more prepared to enter the workforce. I will also share with my peers the information I received over the past few days. I hope to remain in contact with my mentor as well as the staff and scholars of the Hispanic College Fund." – 2008 Karen Marquez Institute Alumnus

Scholars Program and Karen Marquez Institute

- HCF received 34,292 scholarship applications for the 2009-2010 school year, increasing 16.5% over the 2008-2009 school year.
- Our most recent scholar awardees' median household income is $21,631 per year, while the average GPA is 3.5.
- Nearly half of all scholars are pursuing STEM-related majors, while one out of three is pursuing a Business-related degree.
- 67% of scholars will be the first in their family to attain a college degree.

Hispanic Youth Symposia

- More than 95% of participants report that they will go to college, with 8 out of 10 planning to pursue a Master's degree or higher.
- 85% of Hispanic Youth Symposium alumni report actively volunteering in the community.
- More than half of students report that they will pursue a STEM- or business-related degree, and 85% have a plan in place to reach their career goals.

Mission and Programs

The Hispanic College Fund (HCF) is a private non-profit organization dedicated to its mission to develop the next generation of Hispanic professionals in America. The HCF accomplishes its mission by providing Hispanic students with the vision, resources, and mentorship needed to attain successful careers and become community leaders. Our vision is to strengthen the nation, not just economically but also intellectually. With higher Hispanic educational attainment and increased representation of Hispanics in leadership and professional positions, we can ensure the prosperity of future generations.

Since its founding in 1993, HCF has supported the education of over 4,000 financially disadvantaged Hispanic students seeking careers in business, science, engineering and technology with over $13 million in grants. Through programs like the HCF Scholars Program, Hispanic Youth Symposium, Latinos on Fast Track (LOFT), HCF Connections and the HYP Leadership & Development Program, HCF has served an additional 2,000 students and has broadened the pool of Hispanic college graduates that are ready to join the professional workforce.

The Hispanic College Fund programs span the education-to-career trajectory, beginning at the high school level, supporting students through college, and connecting them to their future career. The Hispanic College Fund is increasing the pool of college-bound Hispanic high school students with regionally-focused Hispanic Youth Symposia. The Symposia serve 200 Hispanic students per city and reach students in their sophomore or junior years in high school. Students are nominated by their high school counselor; however, high grades are not a requirement as the purpose of this program is to help average students change their attitudes about going to college. Through year-round support and programming, the Hispanic College Fund ensures that the students stay on track through graduation, apply for scholarships and apply to college. The program has had tremendous results; over 90 percent of students that go through the program have gone on to college. An important element of the program is the location. The symposia are held in college campuses so that students can "live" the life of a college student for 4 days and 3 nights. Hispanic Youth Symposia have been held in the following institutions: Marymount University (VA), Trinity University (DC), University of Maryland – Baltimore County (MD), Towson University (MD), University of Richmond (VA), George Mason University (VA), Southern Methodist University (TX), University of New Mexico (NM), California State University – Fresno (CA), University of California – Los Angeles (CA). Our goal is to host a Symposium in 15 U.S. cities by 2015.

The Hispanic College Fund's Scholars Program supports Latino college students with merit and need-based scholarships. The scholarships are competitive and can have career-specific or geographic criteria that the students must meet. The scholarships are awarded annually. The awards range from $1,000 to $10,000. The median grade point average of the 2009 HCF Scholars was above a 3.5 (on a 4.0 scale), while the median household income was approximately $21,000. This scholarship support is vitally important for these students and their families.

Through the Hispanic Young Professionals Program (HYP), the Hispanic College Fund is preparing cohorts of Hispanic college students for the professional workforce through an intense week of leadership development. Participants of HYP are honored each year at the Hispanic College Fund Gala which attracts over 550 business leaders from the Washington, DC region and beyond. Students must compete for the opportunity and are selected based on their application essay. The leadership development curriculum consists of several career and life skill workshops to prepare students for the workforce. Workshops include resume-writing, interviewing skills, business etiquette, and networking which includes customized business cards for each student. Then, the students visit various employers within the Washington Metro Region where they interact with company leaders and learn about each industry. Finally, cultural and social events cement the peer mentoring relationships that begin during the program.

Finally, the Latinos on Fast Track (LOFT) Program has matched hundreds of Hispanic students to meaningful work experience with companies such as Freddie Mac and Abercrombie & Fitch that seek to hire more Latino professionals. Paired with the HCF Connections website which is an HCF Scholar and alumni virtual meeting place, students are exposed year-round to internships and job opportunities among all HCF sponsors. With more than just a scholarship, the Hispanic College Fund is developing Hispanic youth and bringing together Latino talent and the companies that want to hire them.

The Annual Scholarship Awards Gala

The Hispanic College Fund celebrates the achievement of its scholars at an annual gala held in Washington, DC. The event's program is student-centric, allowing one of the HCF Scholars to deliver a moving speech and bringing all 40 plus students on stage to thank their supporters. Attendees of the event typically include representatives from the organizations that support the work of the HCF. Also attending are community organizations such as: the Hispanic Heritage Foundation, the Society of Hispanic Professional Engineers, the United Negro College Funds Special Programs Corporation, the Association of Latino Professionals in Finance and Accounting and others. Several representatives from federal agencies also attend. These include the Social Security Administration, the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the U.S. Department of Energy and the National Nuclear Security Administration. Finally, members of Congress are always invited to the event. Past attendees include Congress Joe Baca, Senator Mel Martinez, Senator Orrin Hatch, Congressman Silvestre Reyes, and others.

The event will recognize one corporation with the Corporation of the Year Award for its long-term commitment of depth of involvement with our programs. The 2009 recipient of this award will be Kaiser Permanente. The Hispanic College Fund has also recognized a federal agency with the Legacy Award for its commitment to increase the representation of Hispanics in the workforce. The 2009 recipient has not been selected. The 2008 recipient was the NNSA.

The event is preceded by a reception that starts at 6:30 pm. The dinner begins at 7:30 pm and will continue until about 9:30 pm. A post-reception with dancing follows.

Community Involvement

The Hispanic College Fund enjoys the participation of a variety of constituents in its programs. Board members and volunteers support the scholarship program by agreeing to read and score scholarship applications every summer. Additionally, Board members, donors, and supporters also volunteer for the Hispanic Youth Symposia. Each symposium comes together with the work of approximately 200 volunteers who manage the logistics and make sure that the workshops, college fair, competitions, judging panels, meals, dormitories and anything else that need to happen, run smoothly. Volunteers come from the private and public sector, academia and also include past student participants who return as facilitators or Resident Assistants (RAs). The Hispanic College Fund would not have been able to grow without the active participation of its constituents. Some of our most active volunteers groups work for federal agencies, such as the Social Security Administration and the U.S. Department of Energy. The Hispanic College Fund is supported by approximately 1,600 volunteers.

Awards and Recognition

HCF has an annual budget of $6 million with 21 diverse full-time employees. In 2006 the HCF received the Brillante award for “Nonprofit of the Year” from the National Society of Hispanic MBAs, and in 2007 was recognized by USA Today as one of the nation’s top 25 charities.

HCF has a four-star rating from Charity Navigator, the highest rating possible for responsible fiscal management.

Partnerships.

The Hispanic College Fund enjoys a partnership with the Hispanic Heritage Foundation. Both organizations share the administration and execution of the Latinos on Fast Track (LOFT) program. The Hispanic Heritage Foundation celebrates the achievements of Hispanic Americans and provides role models for Latino youth (www.hispanicheritage.org).

The Society of Hispanic Professional Engineers (SHPE) and the United Negro College Fund Special Programs (UNCFSP) are consortium partners with the Hispanic College Fund to administer NASA’s Motivating Undergraduates in Science and Technology (MUST). The partnerships allow for cross-marketing and collaboration to select high achieving students from under-represented groups (African American, Hispanic, Native American, Pacific Islander, persons with disabilities and women) in science and technology for this unique scholarship and internship program.

Partnerships are central to the Hispanic College Fund programs. It is through our partners that we can provide year-round support to Latino high school students in various cities. Partnerships with AVID, the College Summit, the Posse Foundation and others are being with formed as the program expands to more cities.

Description of Organizational Structure.

The Hispanic College Fund Board structure includes six officers and twenty-two board members. The role of the Board is to set policy, review financial reports and audits, ensure compliance, and to help raise funds. Board members make annual personal contributions to the HCF and they also bring in the support of the corporations they represent. As of May, 2009 the following individuals served on the board:

Elizabeth Oliver-Farrow, Chair
Walter Nagel, Vice Chair Legal Affairs & Governance
Tommy Augustsson, Vice Chair of Finance & Treasurer
Marilu Marshall, Vice Chair of Scholarships
Marilyn Kawamura, Vice Chair of Nominations
Janet Farrell, Vice Chair of Development
Orlando Vidal, General Counsel
J. Fernando Barrueta, CEO

The Chief Executive Officer (CEO) and the President report to the Board of Trustees. The CEO's primary role is to lead the development team in reaching the organization's aggressive financial goals. The President's primary role is to maintain and grow the support of current donors, ensure that the organization's strategic goals and objectives are being met, and to oversee the operations of the entire organization. The Vice President of Programs leads the successful execution of all youth programs which includes volunteer recruitment and engagement.

HCF's Statement of Need.

The future of America's economy lies in the hands of a new generation. Consider these statistics:

- In 2005, Hispanic students represented 11 percent of the total student enrollment in higher education. This is up from 6 percent in 1990 [NCES, Digest of Education Statistics, 2007, Table 210].
- Latinos were more likely to be first-generation college students (49 percent) than other undergraduates in 2003-04. [Excelencia in Education and Institute for Higher Education Policy, How Latinos Pay for College: Patterns of Financial Aid in 2003-04, 2005, Table A1].
- Almost 25 percent of Latino dependent undergraduates had family incomes under $40,000 in 2003-04. [Excelencia in Education and Institute for Higher Education Policy, How Latinos Pay for College: Patterns of Financial Aid in 2003-04, 2005, Table A1].

The Hispanic College Fund (HCF) focuses its efforts on serving Hispanic students from low-income homes. The average family income of a 2008 HCF Scholar is $20,500. Additionally, 3 out of 4 HCF Scholars are first person in their family to attend college and 2 out of 3 work while attending school full-time.

HCF provides scholarships that help cover the unmet financial need of students to pay for academic expenses including tuition, computers, books, lab equipment and other academic fees. Each year, about 600 students are awarded scholarships ranging between $500 and $5,000; the average scholarship is approximately $3,000. The scholarship allows students to work fewer hours while in school and focus on their studies.

Unfortunately, many students start their first year of college and find the challenges of a new school, sometimes a new location and academic difficulties overwhelming. Still, student difficulties are as varied as the scholars, themselves. While some scholarship recipients may struggle academically, other scholars focus on their academics to the exclusion of developing a career track, building networks or searching for internship or leadership programs. The reasons for this vary; students may lack role models or simply the time outside of work and school.

The Hispanic College Fund, recognizing these difficulties, provides more than just a scholarship check. Throughout the year, the HCF program office staff keeps students engaged via email and newsletter communication informing them of any internship, scholarship and job opportunities. Many students will contact the office looking for opportunities in specific fields, knowing that the program staff is an accessible and constant resource. HCF leverages its many partnerships and regional networks to help these students find those programs and internship openings or connect them to the people who can.
