FYSA – CCDH provided a prebrief of this report to WH colleagues plus (the meeting referenced in the email below). The new CCDH report (see link below) may be of interest to many of you, and I’ve also attached an emailed call for action from CCDH founder Imran Ahmed. You will know that the USG does not support the “online harms” approach or some of the other CCDH rhetoric, but we think they are doing interesting work.

Separately – please help me update the “CT_CVE-TUI” -- State/CT Department-wide “Terrorist Use of the Internet” (TUI) Working Group -- distribution list by letting me know (directly – please do not reply all) if you are no longer working on/interested in TUI or if other State colleagues need to be added to the distro.

Respectfully,

In respect of your question from our last call about what time the young people identified in the study were active on the forum, our Quant team noted that this was definitely during school hours, even controlling for time zones. I have attached two graphs showing these patterns.

We are happy to meet with you to discuss the other findings in this report, answer any questions, and work with the White House team on providing further evidence, recommendations, or ways to place pressure on platforms to act on this disturbing content. Please contact me directly if you have any questions or would like to arrange a further briefing.

Best wishes

About CCDH

The Center for Countering Digital Hate (CCDH) is a US-based, not-for-profit NGO with 501(c)(3) status, that seeks to disrupt the architecture of online hate and misinformation. CCDH has been at the forefront of unmasking how online platforms and search engines drive radicalization, online harm and misinformation. The Center's work combines both analysis and active disruption of these networks. We champion levers for change to increase the economic, political, and social costs of all parts of the infrastructure - the actors, systems, and culture - that support and profit from hate and misinformation (for example, climate change denial, sexual and reproductive health, anti-vaxx, antisemitism, and identity-based hate). You can read more about our recent work here.

CCDH's 20+ staff are based out of offices in Washington DC and London. CCDH is independent and we do not take money from Big Tech.
